That Twentleth Amendment. The proposed amendment to the constitution of the United States for the regulation of child labor which the in coming legislature of Maine will be cal ed upon to ratify or reject is causing some uneasiness among people, especially rural people, because, they say, it takes or can take the bringing up of a child under 18 years of age out of the

Such fears, the writer thinks, ar groundless. The amendment, if passed simply gives Congress the right to make laws to regulate and limit the labor of minors. If they make any such laws i will be because of abuses to children— over work and loss of school privileges If such laws are enacted it will be be cause the parents invite such legislation by not voluntarily giving their children who are not responsible for being here and many times scarcely have a life worth the thanks, the proper environ-ment of youth. If they are brought up properly there will be no call for such laws; or if they are enacted they wil trouble nobody because officials can fine no parents who are breaking them. A man or woman who has a proper regard for his or her offspring will not want to rob them of their youth, nor thrust adult cares upon them until they reach the years of manhood or womanhood. It is a sad fact, however, that there are States, the state of Maine and the coun ty of Oxford, who look upon their children as an asset in the maintenance of the family, and dislike any laws passed to guarantee to the child an education. or to prevent overwork, under-nourishnent, improper housing or lack of necessary clothing. That there are such cases ight here has been brought out in Oxford County courts; and if any laws are made in this direction it will be because of these cases.

The child needs physical development of these cases.

The child needs physical development and a suitable amount of labor will not hart but, on the other hand, will be to hurt but, on the other hand, will be to kainit and then can here but, on the other hand, will be to tered bin or shed. ot be expected that laws against such There is in some sections a demand which will prevent the entrance of moist-which will prevent the escape of liq-which will prevent the escape of liqor child labor; not for any good reason but simply because it costs less than adult labor. If this is so, the government by its general clause to 'promote the general welfare" certainly has a right to legislate for improvement n this direction, and should receive the upport of all decent people.

It has been stated that child labor ha been carried so far in the South that children are actually brought into the world by degenerate parents that they may have leisure at the children's exense. No wonder there is propaganda

Oxygen Blowpipe Used for Breaking Up Metal The breaking up of large, solid masses of iron or steel, for the purpose of remelting, has heretofore been such a slow and costly operation as to be seldom indulged in, and many blocks of metal of this kind have therefore been abandoned as worse than worthless. The dxygen blowpipe a cheap and simple apparatus and quick in operation, has wonderfully changed all this, says the Compressed

Air magazine. For example, we can have a cylindrical mass of metal, technically known as a "ladle set." more than six feet in diameter, of equal length, and weighing more than forty-five tons. A most hopeless case. A long piece of one-quarter-inch iron pipe is connected by flexible hose with a "bottle" of oxygen. The free end of the pipe is made red hot and the oxygen slowly and carefully turned on. The end of it begins to bore a hole right into the mass to a depth of three feet or more. The hole will be, say, an inch in diameter, and the molten metal will flow out of it in a little stream. In this are quickly burned. These are charged with gelignite and fired all at once special pit. Thus is obtained a mass of pieces that are generally as small as re-

> Goat's and Cow's Milk In taste goat's milk is like rich what whiter and a trifle sweeter. The minitiated would not be able to disinguish it from cow's milk either by taste or odor. It is slightly more viscous than cow's milk, the consistency being smooth like first-run cream. Over 3,000 goats are used by various gov-

Experts declare that it is a good body builder for patients suffering from wasting diseases such as tuberculosis. Goat's milk being algaline in its reaction, the same as human milk, is about the best substitute for mother's milk for babies. The curd of goat's milk, being tender and flaky, digested in the shortest possible time. It is pure and wholesome and can safely be taken in a raw state. Goats are considered immune from tuberculosis, so their milk needs no pasteurizing, and runs no danger o losing any of its vitamines or having any of its lime salts altered by the application of heat.

William L. Douglas

The late William L. Douglas, who died last week at a Boston hospital, was one of the very few men in Massachusetts who made a great success in business before election as Governor of the Commonwealth. Mr. Douglas' name was known in households the country over. He was 79 years of age, having been born in Plymouth, Mass., on August 22, 1845. After a brief and irregular schooling he started to work for an uncle pegging shoes. In 1876 he started a small shop of his own. His business developed rapidly, and he died the president of the W. L. Round the Globe for Things to Eat.

Whether we have an epicurean taste can be put on the menu to make it tempting. Perhaps we are going to entertain, or perhaps we must tempt the delicate appetite of some jaded convalescent. But at any rate, let's see what the fancy grocer has to offer!

We'll begin with the soup, and here

We'll begin with the soup, and here the advantage of the can is apparent, for green turtle soup is imported from France. But it's possible, of course, that we begin eating before the soup. If it's a canapo, Russian caviare, served on tiny triangles of toast, is recognized as correct. Sometimes we use sardines to make such a relish. In this case those imported from Norway are of fiuest quality. For a fruit nucktail there elicious with roasts.

In our own country, too, are meat and fish with a reputation when hailing from a certain locality. Alaskan salmon, for example, means first-grade, cold-water fish, Virginia hams mean a delightful southern style of curing, whether it's ham or bacon, and Philadelphia scrap-ple has a flavor hard to duplicate. Tuna and albicore hail from southern Califor-nia, shrimps from the Texas coast, and the best lobsters and clams from the cool waters of the north Atlantic coast. Our finest salad oil, however, comes from Italy and France, as well as certain to set and govern adjacent furrows, then let the machine do the rest. brands of macaroni, spaghetti, noodles and cheese. Italian Parmesan cheese omes all grated in bottles, and Roquefort dressing comes prepared to use on and Switzerland also send us cheese in the form of Stilton and Neufchatel. If we want something very choice for our salad, there are peeled Malaga grapes, straight from Spain. Pineapple, of course, comes from our own Hawaiian islands, and the demand is said to be so good that the 1924 crop is said to be the largest ever packed. Peppers are another salad accessory and "roseapples" are an American creation in the form of a sweet pepper that is unpeeled, red and come eight in a can. They are useful, both for "cups" and garnishes. Pimientoes are grown both in the Southwest and in Mexico, and usually come packed in oil.

For dessert, the English contribute ready prepared plum puddings and dessert powder. Sea moss is gathered on our own Atlantic coast and has a subtle flavor appreciated in blancmange. Tap-General Repairing ioca comes from the East Indies.

Many of our nuts are home grown House Wiring such as "English" walnuts, peanuts, and almonds. But we import Brazil nuts, or

"nigger toes," chestnuts, and grow the latter at home also.

The best coffee also comes from Brazil, and tea from China. The famous black tea is also known as "Russia Caravan," and a novelty is Chinese jasmine tea, thought to be delicious and refreshing by many. England sends us some fine grades of cocoa.

From Scotland come catmeal and shortbread, as well as Scotch marmalade. Discoveries Along Many Lines. When Sending Flowers to a Mother-When our little girl was born, a friend who sent flowers to the mother included
